

Apprenticeships are a go

A couple of weeks ago I asked for expressions of interest in the new extractive sector apprenticeship scheme which MinEx and MITO have been developing.

I'm delighted to report that so far I've had 17 responses from companies so the scheme is already viable. Any apprenticeship scheme can only work with strong support from employers and I commend you.

Companies willing to put up apprentices include Winstone's Belmont Quarry, AB Lime, Christchurch Readimix, Stone Central near Clyde, Blackhead Quarries, Hatuma Lime, alluvial operators in the Gisborne area - and include men and women of all ages.

This is a clear indication that employers want to see apprenticeships re-established in the extractive sector. I'm greatly encouraged and will now focus on getting the appropriate regime established to provide the necessary training both on-site (primarily) and off-site.

I acknowledge that MinEx has borrowed heavily from Civil Contractors NZ in developing the extractives apprenticeship model.

While 17 potential apprentices is enough to get the scheme underway, I'd welcome having a dozen or a hundred more. Don't forget, the Government's first year fees free fees model is actually two years fees free for those in apprenticeships and other trade training. So anyone who commits to an extractives sector apprenticeship will be able to do most of their training at little cost to themselves.

There's still work to do to get this underway, but apprenticeships are starting to roll.

Please consider if you have someone who would benefit from getting on board and let me know.

Stay safe - and enjoy this latest Train Brain.

Interested in an apprenticeship

If you, or one of your employees is interested in the new extractives sector apprenticeship scheme - let us know.

The pathway starts with MITO's New Zealand Certificate in Mining and Quarrying (Level 2). This takes approximately seven months to complete and is most suited to those entering the industry.

Graduates can then proceed to the New Zealand Certificate in Mining and Quarrying (Level 4) programme which will be ready for enrolments in 2019. It is expected this will take approximately two years to complete.

And with free fees actually being two years fees free for those in apprenticeships and other trade training, there's no better time!

MinEx leads response to new regs

After meeting with the AQA and IOQNZ Boards at the QuarryNZ conference, we've agreed that MinEx will provide the lead to some industry-wide consultation on the draft new Mining and Quarrying Regulations.

We will make a submission on behalf of the Extractives sector and are keen on your feedback on the suggested changes by Fri 10 August 2018. (You are also entitled to make your own submission directly but we see real benefit in aligned industry responses). Submissions are due to MBIE by Friday 17 August 2018.

Here's a summary of the major proposed changes affecting quarries:

It is proposed that a separate section containing quarry regulations be added to the regulations. These will include:

- Requirement for a Health and Safety Management System (HSMS) or Safety Plan. The system/plan must take into account the size, nature and complexity of the site and must include risk management. For simple operations the system should be easy to understand, small and relevant to the operation. There will be no requirement for Principle Hazard Management Plans nor will any quarry be required to have a Site Senior Executive (SSE). The HSMS will be developed by the operator/owner and implemented and maintained by the CoC holder (Manager).
- The B-grade Quarry Manager CoC will be limited to sites employing four or fewer people, which is largely the situation that existed prior to these regulations. The BoE will reconsider what Unit Standards will be required for this revised CoC and we believe will consult with industry on this. It is possible that a B Grade will be able to supervise a quarry of more than four staff under the guidance of an A Grade Manager but this is up for further discussion.

- Quarries that are not winning or processing material or have ceased winning or processing material will be classified as "dormant quarries" and will be exempt from the regulations. An example here is a Council quarry where a contractor is employed to blast and crush roadbase and put it into stockpile. Once stockpiled and the contractor leaves the site, this will become a dormant quarry. Such sites will be required to notify WorkSafe that they are now dormant quarries.
- Quarries will be required to report notifiable incidents to WorkSafe and complete a quarterly statistical report to WorkSafe.

See the full consultation document here.

Please send feedback on the above, or any other issues you have to me
- wayne@minex.org.nz before Friday 10 August 2018.

Third MinEx workshop for Invercargill

There's been strong support and attendance for MinEx's series of regional workshops.

So far we've run regional workshops in four centres, with a focus on health and safety management.

Across the meetings in Palmerston North, Waipukurau, Gisborne and Whakatane we've had nearly 120 attendees.

Our next workshops get underway next month, and there's been so much interest down in the deep south we have arranged a THIRD workshop for Invercargill - Thursday 9 August from 9:30am till 12:30pm.

The format of all other workshops is 3.00pm till 6.00pm, followed by refreshments and general discussion. Venues to be confirmed.

Registration is free - and 3 hrs formal CPD applies.

To RSVP contact MinEx today.

MinEx regional workshops

Workshops are filling fast! So fast that we have now just announced a THIRD workshop in Invercargill.

In some venues it's just not logistically possible to add in a second (or third) workshop - so if you'd like to take up this opportunity for some FREE CPD hours, register today.

The workshops provide an introduction to Health and Safety Management Systems - what they are, and how to develop one. The elements covered in each workshop are:

- Risk Management
- Workplace Inspections
- Plant
- Training & Competency
- Emergency Response.

You will be provided with a simple HSMS template with forms to use in your operation.

Thanks to our sponsors

Fist pumps to all those organisations who have helped make our regional workshops possible. We really appreciate your support and sponsorship!

With a particular thanks to Mike Higgins from J Swaps and John Crawley from ASB Asset Finance who have worked hard to bring sponsorship together for at least seven of our workshops.

CoC results

We are seeing a slightly worrying drop in B Grade oral exam pass rates.

After climbing last year, there were 18 candidates interviewed between April and June and only 10 passed.

I'd hope this is a minor blip but if you or one of your staff were one of the nearly one in two who failed, please contact me to discuss why this might have happened and what we can do to assist.

MinEx has worked hard over the last year on initiatives including the mentors scheme to support candidates.

I am pleased to see the cumulative percentage of competent candidates this year has slightly risen to 70%.

Let's work to keep that momentum.
